

GRAYSLAKE MUSICIAN IS FOUND DEAD IN CAR NEAR ANTIOCH

Frank Frazier, 27, Is Believed Suicide
Victim

Without a spark of life in it, the body of Frank Frazier, 27 year old Grayslake musician, was found huddled under the steering wheel of his car in a ditch near Liberty corner on the Willmet road in Kenosha county Friday morning. The victim, who had a bullet hole in his temple and a horse pistol belonging to his father in his lap, was believed to have committed suicide, according to the findings of Coroner A. H. Schmidt of Kenosha.

Reported by Farmer.

Noticing the car in the ditch about 6 o'clock, a farmer living near the scene of the tragedy reported the case to authorities and upon investigation they found evidences which led them to believe that the man had been murdered.

In answer to inquiry, Clifford, the brother of the victim told authorities that Frank had gone home Thursday night and remained there about an hour only to drive away in his car and not return. Clifford identified the big old fashioned gun as one belonging to his father.

Evidences lead to Murder Theory. Although the position of the body in the car, the fact that the man's shoes were muddy, and his ankles turned over as though he might have been dragged into the machine from a muddy ditch, and the fact that the index finger on his right hand had been severed in an accident last winter led officials to establish firm beliefs in the murder theory. Coroner Schmidt made the statement that the case was set down as a suicide.

Due to the fact that he had no steady employment, Frazier had been moody of late, friends report. He was a banjo player in a dance orchestra, and the accident in which he lost his finger made it difficult for him to play.

Authorities are of the opinion that because of his lost finger and the fact that he had his left hand bandaged, together with the size of the gun, it must have been a difficult task for him to shoot himself.

Since there are no finger prints on the weapon, there remain several unsolved mysteries in respect to the shooting.

FOUR YEAR OLD BOY COMES TO ANTIOCH TO JOIN PARENTS

Walter Westhoff, Jr.,
Sails Alone from Germany

RELATIVE OF GOV. HEAD

Engulfed in a crowd of people, all of whom were strange to him, with the exception of his father and mother, whom he had not seen for a year and a half, little four year old Walter Westhoff, Jr., arrived in Chicago from Germany on the Manhattan Limited of the Pennsylvania railroad Friday enroute to the home of his parents on the Enyswood farm, east of Antioch.

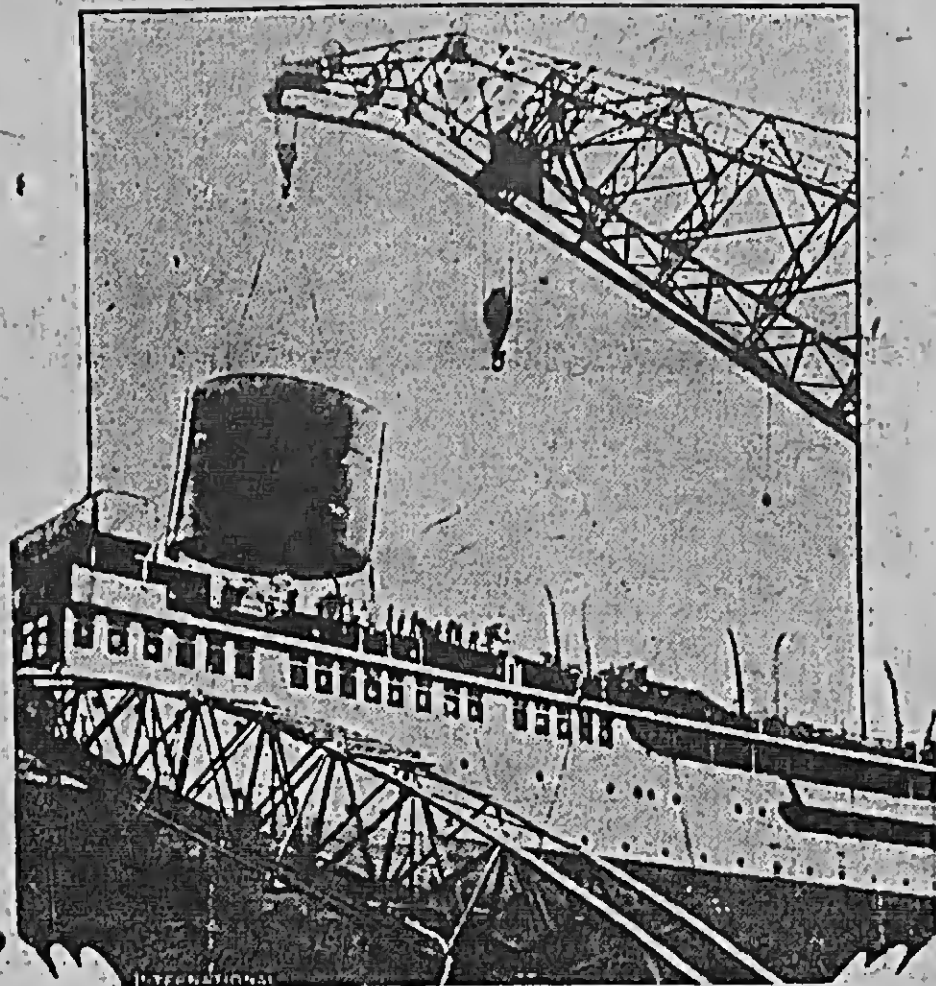

Had he not come to America he could now be enjoying the honor of being the distinguished grandnephew of Chancellor Heinrich Brüning, recently elected head of the cabinet of the German republic. The little fellow came across the Atlantic on the new ocean liner, the Bremen, unattended except for the stewardess and governess and the guidance of the Travelers' Aid society.

Unable to control their emotions, Mr. and Mrs. Westhoff, Sr., were all tears and smiles when they saw their little son slip off the train. After heroically allowing various newspaper photographers to click their cameras, the family started on their way to Antioch.

STATE ROAD POLICE UNPOLITICAL: MOODY

State Seeks High Type
Men for Patrol
Duty

Walter L. Moody, superintendent of state police, Friday told highway engineers, county highway superintendents, and material dealers of the character and type of men the state is seeking in its state police work. The man who knows how to discipline, who has had some training in the Army, if possible, and the man who is not pushed into office by political attachments, is the type of man for whom we are seeking, he explained.

Mr. Moody addressed the pre-noon session of the Seventeenth Annual Short Course in Highway Engineering, University of Illinois, speaking on, "The Illinois Highway Maintenance Police." He furthered the statement of Governor Emmerson on Thursday night relative to acceptance of honoraria.

"No man on the staff will be allowed to accept an honorarium," the speaker declared. This statement was also advanced by the governor in addressing the banquet session. Everyone a Gentleman.

Political pressure that used to place men in positions will not be tolerated, Mr. Moody stressed. Eighty per cent of the men now employed in the state police force are ex-service men.

"They are gentlemen, who will discipline in the correct fashion. They range in ages from 25 to 45 years of age and weigh between 150 and 180 pounds, and are better than five feet in height. Policing of highways is just in its infancy, and the reorganization calls for a great many new plans.

"We are allowed a quota of 300 men, and we now have 220. During the spring and summer they will travel by motorcycle, and during the winter months double up, using coupes."

After two and one-half days of listening to discussion on road problems, including everything from graders to subgraders characteristics, more than 500 visitors are enroute to their homes throughout the state, as the final session was late Friday afternoon, with Dr. M. M. Leighton, chief of the State Geological survey, as one of the speakers. Along with the geologist was A. H. Hinkle, chief engineer of maintenance, Indiana state Highway commission, who spoke on low cost of bituminous road surfaces.

Lester Tiffany Grooms Friends in Antioch

Chief of Police Lester T. Tiffany, Republican nominee for sheriff of Lake county, was greeting Antioch friends Tuesday. Chief Tiffany feels deeply grateful to Lake county voters for his success at the primary, and while here, he reiterated his promise for an administration of law and order. He was accompanied by his friend, Ernest Mayer, Highland Park real estate man, who took an active part in the campaign in behalf of Mr. Tiffany.

Antioch One of Eight Towns Where Election Speculations Are Made

While Antioch voters were speculating as to the results of the "still-hunt" balloting here Tuesday, seven other towns in Lake county—Libertyville, North Chicago, Deerfield, Lake Bluff, Highwood, Zion, and Gurnee, were proving beyond any reasonable doubt that they were interested in the fiery battles being waged in those centers.

Although the number of votes cast in the majority of these towns was small due to the inclement weather, the vote in many instances was so close that it was necessary for the judges to count and recount the ballots until they were nearly mutilated. All kinds of perplexities had to be ironed out before it was possible for election officials to declare the winners. In one place several mailed ballots were thrown out because the mayor and village clerk seals were said to have made the markings unreadable.

GOTTER FOUND GUILTY; JUDGE DELAYS SENTENCE

Gardener Faces Penal Term
For Assault on Fourth
Lake Couple

The jury which for two days held in its hands the fate of Sebastian Gotter, who on December 20, 1928, shot and maimed Mr. and Mrs. August Hallmann, wealthy Chicagoans, on their estate near Fourth Lake, Tuesday evening found him guilty of assault with intent to murder, after an hour's deliberation. Judge Shurtliff suspended sentence pending the hearing of a motion for a new trial filed by Gotter's attorney.

The trial drew to a dramatic close late Tuesday afternoon, with the defense attorneys, William Delanna and Willard Longcor, tangling frequently with State's Attorney A. V. Smith in the final arguments.

Grade School Pupils Inspect News Office

With eyes and ears keyed up to a receptive mood, the members of Miss Harwood's sixth grade class spent an hour this morning inspecting the Antioch News plant. There was a gleam of amusement in their eyes as they gazed at the linotype, the presses, and other equipment. Eager to learn all they could about a printing office, the kids did not hesitate in the least to make inquiries about the why of this and the what of that. As they marched out in an orderly manner with their coats thrown deliberately over their shoulders, there was a look of satisfaction on their faces—their dreams of someday getting the inside dope on a printing office had materialized.

NO COMPETITION IN SCHOOL ELECTIONS

A. N. Tiffany and Mrs.
Warriner Retire From Office

Drawing a comparatively light vote, due perhaps to the fact that in each case there was no opposition, the three school elections held here Saturday showed no indication of the enthusiasm by which they are usually characterized.

Receiving 45 votes, George White was reelected a member of the Antioch Township High school board and Lester Osmond was chosen to succeed A. N. Tiffany, who did not declare himself a candidate for reelection, because of his duties on the State Board of Pardons and Paroles, with which he is affiliated. Mr. Tiffany has served in the capacity of a board member since the organization of the school district in 1914.

Held Organization Meet

As is customary, each year, members of the board held an organization meeting at the high school Monday night, at which time George White was chosen president and Prin. L. O. Bright, acting secretary in the place of D. B. Sablin, who held that position for a period of sixteen years. Mr. Sablin saw fit to resign this year due to ill health and other duties which are demanding his attention.

Mrs. Warriner Retires from Office

With fifteen votes cast at the grade school election, S. E. Pollock was reelected president; Maybelle A. Crandall was chosen to succeed Mrs. W. W. Warriner, who voluntarily retired from office; and Mrs. Ethel Pesat was reelected, with no opposition. Mrs. Warriner has evinced an interest in the welfare of the school as a board member for nine years.

Harold Minto, who was a candidate for reelection as trustee for Township 46, Range 10 East, received thirty-two votes in Antioch and four in Lake Villa, Frank Hamlin receiving one in the latter.

There will be a matinee Saturday night at 7:30.

Mrs. Lucy Haycock Webb Dies at Home. Of Son Monday

Following an illness of a short duration, Mrs. Lucy Haycock Webb, 92, died at the home of her son, Antioch, Monday.

The deceased, who was one of the oldest residents of Antioch Township, was born in Bamberg, England. At the age of six she came to America with her parents. In 1855 she was united in marriage to Edwin Webb and to their union two children were born, Elizabeth, who preceded her in death, and Charles, Antioch.

The funeral was held from the home yesterday, with Rev. Phillip Bohl officiating.

NASH SEDAN IS STOLEN

No trace of the gray Nash sedan belonging to Constable Carl Anderson, that was stolen from the parking grounds at the Antioch Palace had been reported today. Anderson had loaned the car to his cousin, Clarence Volkman, who drove it to the Palace.

The theft occurred about 12 o'clock, according to witnesses who saw the car parked near the Palace shortly before that hour. Suspicion pointed to a strange young man who had been in Antioch several days last week and who was observed tampering with the Nash car shortly before it was driven away.

STRATTON IS CHOICE FOR SUPERVISOR HEAD

Lake Villa Man Has No Opposition as Vote Is Taken

After having been named chairman of the Lake county supervisor board by a unanimous vote at a special meeting in the court house yesterday morning, Supervisor H. C. Stratton took the chair amid applause of the entire board.

For several weeks Stratton has been the outstanding candidate for the board chair. He was nominated for the post by H. D. Kelsey, of Cuba, and the motion immediately followed that the Lake Villa man be named on a unanimous ballot.

Stratton succeeds J. P. O'Connor of Deerfield.

Veteran on Board

The new chairman, a brother of William J. Stratton, the secretary of state, has been representing Lake Villa on the county board for the past eight years. He has been a member of the road and bridge committee for the past five years, and was also on the license and farmers' institute committee, and the judiciary committee during the last year.

Before nominations were made to replace him, J. P. O'Connor made a short speech of thanks to the board which had voted him as its head a year ago. He remained in the chair until Stratton was elected and walked on the platform. Then the retiring chairman and his successor shook hands cordially, and Stratton formally thanked the board for the honor which had come upon him.

The two new supervisors, Walter N. Piquette and A. J. Sutkus of Waukegan, were voted into their seats by the unanimous consent of the entire board.

"Aunt Sarah" Faulkner, who was taken to the Lake County hospital Sunday, returned to Antioch Tuesday.

Cleus Vos, who fractured his pelvis bone a week ago while stepping from a truck, is in Burlington Memorial hospital, where it is expected he will have to remain for about a month.

LOCAL MAN SAYS A MOUSE CAN SET A HOUSE ON FIRE

All because a voracious little mouse got desperate one night last week when he was faced with the problem of how to avert the grasp of starvation, Richard Wilton, Antioch, has come to the portentous conclusion that it is perfectly possible for these rodents who became famous in the days of Hamelin to go places and do things—yes even to do things so destructive as setting a house on fire.

Going to the pantry one day last week, Mr. Wilton made a surprising discovery. He found that a naughty little mouse had manipulated his grayish brown and buffy tail and established a bivy on a box of matches that was on the shelf. Investigating further, he found that the warfare that had been waged was a real guerrilla one. The tops of all the matches had been burned off and the box was in a decidedly dilapidated condition.

Wordily about the details of the dramatic episode, Mr. Wilton says he is of the opinion that the deed must have been done "in the dead of night." Why the mouse did not go up in flames remains an unsolved mystery. Addendum: Rousing debauchment for the enterprising salutes of this mischievous creature, Mr. Wilton says he is going to get rid of that mouse and hereafter he is planning on storing the household matches in a tin container.

HARRY ISAACS LEADS WITH HIGH VOTE AT VILLAGE ELECTION

Independents Threaten to Carry Election; Fail, Ballot Count Shows

Political pranksters injected a little pep into the annual village election here Tuesday afternoon when it became known that names were being written in on the independent side of the ballot in opposition to the regular candidates who had their names on the ballot by virtue of a petition having been filed with the village clerk. Nothing came of the effort to defeat the regulars, but the episode did cause some uneasy moments and saved the day from being the usual dry election, as is the case when candidates are unopposed.

Harry A. Isaacs, veteran village clerk, received 81 votes for reelection. There was no dissenting vote cast against Mr. Isaacs, at least none that could be counted, neither were there any such votes against H. J. Vos or E. O. Hawkins, candidates for reelection as trustees, each receiving 77 votes. Nason E. Shibley, a new board member, ran up 64 votes, and for the same post the name of Frank Harden was written in for 10 counters, evidently some of these writing in the name forgot to mark an x in the square, so the votes did not count.

For village treasurer, William A. Hoising received 66 votes and the name of Tom Burnett was written in once for this office.

Joseph C. James, regular candidate for police magistrate, was the chief target for the insurgents. It was rumored during the afternoon that the veteran justice was facing certain defeat as voters were writing in the name of Thomas E. Burnetta. When the smoke of the fray cleared away it was found that James polled 63 votes, Burnetta 23, and Sam Tarbell 1. The independents would have had many more votes had not the voters neglected to place a cross in the squares preceding the names written in.

Two were elected library directors for three year terms, Nellie Brogan receiving 49 votes and Roy D. Williams 45.

PACKING PLANT BEING REBUILT— DUPRE CONTRACTOR

Replacing the portion of the building destroyed by fire a month ago, Contractor Vincent Dupre is rushing to completion a modern three story fire-proof addition to the building of the Antioch Packing company. The new building is to be of concrete and brick and as nearly fire-proof as is possible, according to Joseph Patravsky, owner and manager of the plant. The semi-basement floor is to be used for manufacturing meat products, and the two upper floors are to be used for the office, storage and sales rooms.

LOCAL DEPARTMENT CALLED TO HOOKER LAKE, NEAR SALEM

The Antioch Fire department was called to Hooker lake, east of Salem, Friday noon to extinguish a fire of unknown origin, which partially destroyed the old boarding house, which is owned by the Salem Oaks subdivision.

During the summer months this house was occupied by Dr. and Mrs. C. E. Cline, of Chicago. The conflagration was reported by Dan Demo, caretaker. The property was formerly owned by the Consumers' ice company, who disposed of it following the burning of the ice house several years ago.

Lake County Bankers Hold Annual Meeting

Lake county bankers, assembled at the Glen Flora country club last night at the annual meeting and dinner-dance of the county federation, re-elected William Hubbell, of the First National Bank of Libertyville, chairman for the ensuing year.

Well known vaudeville stars, readers and musicians provided some of the best entertainment ever put on by the bankers and the entire program was one of great enjoyment. The Antioch delegation included Mr. and Mrs. Otto Klass, Mr. and Mrs. S. Boyer Nelson, Mr. and Mrs. James McMillan and William Morley.

PATRONIZING THE HOME TOWN

No matter how close you live to the heart of a big city, it is to your best interests to trade with your neighborhood merchants as much as possible.

The section of the city or the suburb in which you have made your home won't thrive, and improve unless the merchants there are given a fair deal.

Buying your wants in the city or from a mail order house, instead of boosting business in your own town is a direct blow to your personal welfare.

Since the patriotic cash and carry system is being adopted by the different merchants throughout the country, we can appreciate all the more the small town store.

MODERN JOKE TRANSPORTATION

In these days of modern rapid transportation nothing travels faster nor farther than a new joke. Its appearance is as welcome as the birth of an heir in an old fashioned kingdom, and it is started on a dizzy circulation that sweeps the whole country in concentric rings and then flies off at a tangent to the farthest confines of the West—to the Barbary states and London.

The new joke perhaps comes out modestly and timidly in a newspaper and magazine. It is quickly seized and reproduced by a thousand more. It next appears in radio programs; it is sandwiched in the "talkies"; it passes on to the vaudeville stage, and after it is supposed to have jumped the ocean, it fools its old friends by coming up in the daily comic strips. Of course it never gets away from the after-dinner speaker. There is nothing so much in demand as bright new jokes—the common property of all—and there is never over-production. He is a real benefactor of humanity who contributes a good joke to the world.

A REAL ROAD PROBLEM

The good roads movement in the United States has been productive of so much enthusiasm that we are likely to reach the conclusion that our present highway mileage is adequate for all purposes and that there is no necessity for going to the expense for further building on a large scale.

The facts show differently. The United States has three times as many automobiles as the rest of the world, but Europe has four times our surfaced roadway. We stand twelfth in the world in the proportion of highway mileage to square miles of territory.

A vast field for highway development remains almost untouched in this country. Great stress has been laid on construction of trunk highways. Farm-to-market roads now need attention.

At present there is a determined movement, led by the American Farm Bureau Federation, to provide the farmer with the all-weather, year-round highways that he needs and deserves. This can be done, in most states, without excessive cost to the taxpayers by employing economical, low-priced, but long-wearing surfaces. So long as an overwhelming majority of American farmers live on roads that are impassable during several months of the year there will be a serious road problem.

WHAT ELECTRICITY HAS DONE

Increased wages and living standards are the direct result of increased industrial production which, in turn, is the result of application of power to work that was once done by hand or with clumsy, comparatively inefficient and dangerous machines.

Today the homes of persons of modest means have comforts and labor-saving devices powered by electricity, that were undreamed of 20 years ago. And with the extension of power to rural areas the farm is receiving the benefits of the same high standards of service that have revolutionized industrial and social life in the cities.

Flexibility and economy are the keystones of modern electric service. It can be applied, with equal efficiency, to a great factory or a two-room apartment. It can do a multitude of tasks, great and small, quickly, economically and unobtrusively. It is available to almost every person in America. And cost is steadily decreasing in comparison to the cost of other commodities, while standards of service improve.

Electricity is the greatest power ever harnessed by man for his purposes. American industrial and economic preeminence and world leadership come from the vast progress made since the war in the development of electric utilities.

Quite contrary to the prosaic brilliance of the days last week, Tuesday made its debut in a rainy atmosphere.

Ultraconservatives predict that we're going to have an unpleasant spring and an unusually hot summer—what must the radicals have to say?

"We used to clamor for that paper like gold down in Florida," said Arthur Edgar as he sauntered into the News office Friday morning. He had reference to the Antioch News.

Tomorrow Antioch pupils and students won't have to go to school. Wouldn't it be nice if some official power would declare a spring interlude in the endless succession of weekly publication days? Once upon a time there was a brilliant editor who declared his own. Periodically he would skip a publication. Because all his subscribers understood it was not necessary to explain, on the resumption of publication, that the lapse had been coincident with one of his own. The first paper after a debacle was generally a wee bit rolly, but the crystal clearness of the next issue reflected his genius and brought him forgiveness.

Even though it did rain all day Tuesday, one local man didn't hesitate to tell a representative of the Antioch News what he thought this game called politics is all about. "You know how it is with Amos and Andy," he said. "It is check and double check. Well it is the same in politics except it is cross and double cross." Not such bad stuff.

"There's a good Eagle-Eye," a business man remarked yesterday, pointing toward a state highway police car parked directly in front of a fire hydrant on Main street. Eagle-Eye looked where the man pointed. There it was, plain as day, right by the fireplug, in violation of the state law which the policeman is sworn to uphold. That was bad—but wait. Ambling on up the street an observer spotted four more autos parked wrong, and in violation of law. Three of these belonged to Antioch business men. So—"Let him who is without sin of this kind cast the first stone."

Household
HintsA Hand-Picked List of Salads That Will Delight You

It has been said that we here in America are the greatest eaters of salads the world has ever known. Crisp, green salads at dinner—vegetable or meat salads for luncheon or supper—fruit salads, in infinite variety, for regular desserts or for party refreshments. Small wonder, indeed, that the aspiring hostess often finds it quite a problem to create something new in this crowded field of foods. And no wonder she sometimes is perplexed about just what to serve with the deliciously different contras she has concocted.

For the type of food that accompanies any salad will vary greatly, according to the components of the principal dish. A snappy sandwich, for instance, is exactly proper for serving with vegetable or meat salads, but would be entirely unsuitable with a salad made from fruit. And the sweet sandwich, cookie, or piece of cake that is so delightful with a dainty fruit salad is not at all the type of thing to serve with the salad course at a substantial luncheon or dinner.

Following are a number of suggestions that may help when you are confronted with the problem of what to let accompany some particular, now salad you have created. They have been tested and proved correct from the standpoint of deliciousness as well as dietetics.

To Accompany Crisp Green Salads

Crisp Crackers
Paprika Crackers
Spread saltines with soft butter, and sprinkle lightly with paprika. Place in a hot oven until the butter and paprika are blended, and the crackers thoroughly crisp. Serve hot.
Cheese Straws
Roll pie pastry 1-8 inch thick. Sprinkle with grated cheese, and roll the cheese into the pastry. Cut into strips with a sharp knife and bake in a hot oven.

To Accompany Fruit Salads

Sandwiches of buttered nutbread spread with Apple Butter or Fruit Preserves.
Small open sandwiches of Currant or Grape Jelly decorated with cream cheese.

Cheese Straws
Jam Tea Biscuits
Prepare baking powder biscuit dough, turn out on lightly floured board and pat 1-4 inch thick. Cut with a biscuit cutter. In half of the biscuits make holes with a doughnut cutter or other small, round cutter. Place a cut biscuit on a whole one, and fill the center with Fruit Preserves or Apple Butter. Bake in a hot oven.

Crisp Cookies
Unfrosted angel food or sponge cake.

To Accompany Vegetable or Meat Salads

Devilled Biscuits
Sift together 2 cups flour, 4 tablespoons baking powder, and 1-2 teaspoon salt. Add 2 tablespoons butter, and 2 tablespoons lard and blend thoroughly, using two knives or a fork. When flaky add milk to form a firm dough (about 2-3 to 3-4 cup). Mix lightly and toss on a lightly floured board. Pat about 1-4 inch thick, and shape with a biscuit cutter. Spread each biscuit with a thin layer of devilled ham, prepared by mixing 1 cup cold cooked chopped ham, 1-4 cup chopped Stuffed Spanish Olives, 1-2 teaspoon Prepared Mustard and 1 tablespoon Mayonnaise Salad Dressing. Cover each biscuit with another one of the same thickness, and bake in a moderately hot oven from 12 to 15 minutes.

Cheese Biscuits
To the flour, baking powder and salt in the above recipe add 1-2 cup grated cheese and mix lightly. Add milk to form a soft dough. Pat 1-2 inch thick and shape with a very small biscuit cutter. Bake for 10 to 12 minutes in a hot oven, and serve hot.

Sandwiches of chopped nutmeats and sliced Stuffed Olives, moistened with Mayonnaise Salad Dressing.

Sandwiches of prepared Sandwich Relish.

Sandwiches of chopped celery and Stuffed Spanish Olives, moistened with Mayonnaise Salad Dressing.

"Three Lumps, Please"

Dr. Donald A. Laird, Colgate University psychologist, and anchor, the movie's only woman producer, are separated by the width of the continent. But their ideas run in the same channels. Dr. Laird recently completed an investigation which revealed that sugar, recognized as one of nature's greatest energy foods, will offset physical fatigue. About the same time, Fanchon issued an edict that her girls must eat enough energy-building foods to maintain their pep and vitality. That's why the Hollywood studio girls shown above are dropping an extra lump in their afternoon tea.

Sally Ann's
—at her home

Pitter patter, went the rain on Sally Ann's window when she woke up Tuesday morning. But oh dear me, no sooner had she opened her little eyes than she suddenly remembered that she had left all of her dollies in their buggy outside in her play yard. And what would she do; so she jumped up and ran in and told her mother to go out and get Mable, Peggy, and Cracky so that they would not have to be in the rain any longer, but when her mother got out there, there were no dollies to be seen. What could have become of them? They looked and looked and looked, but poor little Mable and Cracky and Peggy could not be found.

Sally Ann was so lonesome all that forenoon that she couldn't even go out and play. Finally after much teasing, her mother told her that if she would go out and play maybe she would find them. So Sally Ann took her black and white ball and went over to Robert's house to play ball with him. After they had been playing for about an hour, the ball happened to roll under the porch and so Sally Ann went to get it. No sooner had she peeked under the porch than she spied something green lying in the mud. So she crawled under a little farther and what do you think she saw, Peggy. But she was so dirty and her clothes were so torn that Sally Ann hardly recognized her.

Still Sally Ann was not content, because where could Mable and Cracky be? Picking up Peggy and ending her up in her arms, Sally Ann started home quite happy to think that she had been lucky enough to find at least one of her dollies. When she went into the house there lay Mable and Cracky on the davenport. Her mamma had found them in the back yard. Sally Ann couldn't imagine how it ever happened that her dollies got scattered all over when she had left them on the porch, but her father said he believed some dog must have come up onto the porch during the night and carried them away.

Easter Salads Add a
the Meal

Easter salads may be most colorful and attractive; and they offer an excellent opportunity to add a seasonal touch, either to the family meal or to party menu. While we all enjoy inventing new combinations for salads, many of us are too busy to spend much time in working out attractive ideas, so I am giving here a few hints that you may want to follow in making up your salads at this season.

Easter Apple Salad really is only a hard-boiled egg very much dressed up—but it is sure to bring exclamations of delight when it is served. Easter Basket Salad—made of celery shreds and colored cheese balls—is another dish that looks almost too good to eat. While Easter Egg Fritt Salad is an unusually attractive member of the ever popular "fruit family."

Even the busiest cook can find time to make these salads, and they are so attractive that your chief difficulty will be deciding which one to try first!

Easter Apple Salad

Cover eggs with cold water and simmer very slowly for about one-half hour. Remove shells and while hot press into apple shapes between thumb and finger. Mix a bit of red vegetable coloring with cold water, drop the eggs into the water, and let stand a few minutes until an attractive pink color. Insert a whole clove to represent the blossom end of the apple, and a stem and leaves to represent the stem end (rose or artificial leaves may be used). Arrange on crisp nests of lettuce, and garnish with Salad Cream.

Serve with—

Sandwiches of Sandwich Relish.
Sandwiches of chopped celery and nuts moistened with Mayonnaise Salad Dressing.

Easter Egg Fritt Salad

Arrange individual nests of crisp lettuce, and in each place half a canned pear from which part of the center has been removed. Divide two packages of Philadelphia Cream Cheese into four parts and color each differently with vegetable coloring (you might have red, green, and orange, and leave one part white). Chill the cheese, then form into small egg-shaped balls. Place one egg of each color in the pear basket and garnish with Mayonnaise Salad Dressing. Serve with crisp cookies, unfrosted angel food, or sponge cake.

Easter Basket Salad

Cut celery into fine shreds. In a bed of lettuce make a nest of the shredded celery, and in each nest place several small eggs made from plumetto cheese. Garnish with French Dressing and serve with sandwiches of Sandwich Relish on whole wheat bread.

Devilled Egg Salad

Cut 4 hard-cooked eggs in half lengthwise. Mash yolks, and season with salt, pepper, butter, prepared mustard and vinegar. Minced potted ham may be added, if desired. Fill the whites and serve two halves in a nest of crisp lettuce or other greens, with a dressing made of 1 cup Mayonnaise Salad Dressing and 1-4 cup Chili Sauce. Serve with sandwiches made with Sandwich Relish or other well-seasoned sandwich fillings.

DYNAMIC NEW ERSKINE

LOW cost is no barrier to champion performance! A small down payment procures it for you in The Dynamic New Erskine. This BIG car has repeatedly proved its power and stamina in typical Studebaker fashion. At Pomona, California, it set a new record for the 7-1 mile climb up Mt. Baldy. It climbed 75 feet farther up Motorcycle Hill, near El Paso, Texas, than any other car ever went. These and many other recent spectacular feats, certify that The Dynamic New Erskine, built by the Builder of Champions, is champion in its own right—entirely worthy of its 78-year-old heritage of quality.

MRS. SINE LAURSEN
WILL SPEND SUMMER
IN NATIVE COUNTRY

Will Sail for Denmark
In June; To Land in Copenhagen

Attracted by the beckoning hand of kinship, Mrs. Sine Laursen, North Main street, is formulating plans for a trip to Denmark, her native country, this spring. She will start for New York on May 31.

First Visit in 20 Years

Due to the fact that this is the first time she will have set foot on her native soil in 20 years, Mrs. Laursen is particularly enthused about her return. She will sail on Steamship Fredrick VIII, landing in Copenhagen; from there she will go by train to the city of Viborg, a distance of about 100 miles, and then to the home of her aged father and mother and brothers and sisters. Almind, the population of which is 200. Here she will visit the farm on which she was born.

To Attend Danish Celebration

One of the big features of her trip will be the opportunity to attend the annual Danish-American celebration to be held on July 4, at Rabli Bakker (Rabli Hills), a beautiful tract of land near Viborg which has been set aside for that purpose. Thousands of Danes who live in America go there every summer for this gala event, according to Mrs. Laursen.

Before her return to the United States in September, she plans to visit many places of interest in her native country.

Sophomore Class
Will Give Play

Members of the sophomore class of the local high school are making extensive preparations for their class play, "Adam and Eve", which they are presenting in the auditorium on May 9. This is a three-act comedy which depicts the story of an American business man who has a genius for making money, but not a trace of talent for managing his own family. The following students have been chosen as members of the cast: Harry Stephens, Robert Dixon, Dorothy Runyard, John Brogan, Catherine Bettger, Robert King, Ruth Nixon, John Tallalsha, Corrado Hughes, and Allan Boch. The play is being directed by Miss Lillian Schroeder, of the high school faculty.

CHRISTIAN SCIENCE CHURCHES

"Are Sin, Disease, and Death Real?" was the subject of the Lesson-Sermon in all Churches of Christ, Scientist, on Sunday, April 13.

The Golden Text was, "He called his twelve disciples together, and gave them power and authority over all devils, and to cure diseases. And he sent them to preach the kingdom of God, and to heal the sick" (Luke 9:1, 2).

Among the citations which comprised the Lesson-Sermon was the following from the Bible: "Fear thou not; for I am with thee; be not dismayed; for I am thy God; I will strengthen thee; yea, I will help thee; yea, I will uphold thee with the right hand of my righteousness" (Isaiah 41:10).

The Lesson-Sermon also included the following passages from the Christian Science textbook, "Science and Health with Key to the Scriptures," by Mary Baker Eddy: "Sin, sickness, and death are to be classified as effects of error. Christ came to destroy the belief of sin. God is everywhere, and nothing apart from Him is present or has power" (p. 473).

REVEAL PLANS FOR SUMMER VACATION

To Attend School, Work,
Travel, Teach,
And Rest

SOME ARE UNDECIDED

That members of Antioch's professional aggregation are no different from the average was indicated today when it was learned through interviews that they would spend the summer months doing conventional things—going to school to get a more thorough knowledge of subject matter, traveling to gain an education which cannot be obtained from books, directing young people, and last, but not least, taking a rest from all work in order to be in better mental and physical condition to meet the problems of the coming year.

Prin. and Mrs. L. O. Bright and daughter will spend the summer on the Eastern coast and in Canada. They plan to visit many historical and literary points of interest.

Miss Rice expects to tour Europe. She will be accompanied by her sister, who is an instructor in an American school in Beirut, Syria. They plan to see the Passion Play and visit relatives in Norway.

Pursuing the same diversion that he has for several seasons, Mr. Reed has accepted a position as instructor in a boys' camp in northern Michigan.

"I haven't made any definite plans", was Miss Schroeder's reply to the inquiry as to how she was going to spend her vacation.

Miss Smith will spend a good share of the summer touring the East.

Although undecided as to what his work will be, Mr. Hackett says he and Mrs. Hackett and the children are formulating plans for a trip to the Alleghany mountains and possibly on to Washington, D. C.

Actively interested in home economics on a large scale, Mrs. Richey will be manager of the Illinois State Normal university cafeteria during the summer sessions.

Mrs. Dardenne will visit her home in Erie, Pennsylvania, after which she will join her husband in Chicago.

Continuing his constructive work in vocational agriculture, Mr. Kull will spend most of the time on various farms in the vicinity of Antioch helping the "ag boys" with their projects.

Mr. Peterson will be employed in a camp in Yellowstone National Park. Prin. Petty plans to attend the

HEARS "MESSIAH"

Evincing an interest in the most difficult musical program ever attempted in this section of the state, hundreds of people not only from Antioch, but also from surrounding centers, assembled at the high school auditorium Monday night to hear the "Messiah", which was presented by the Antioch high school chorus of sixty voices, assisted by the string ensemble.

Through the use of choruses, solos, and orchestra numbers, a sacred theme, the foreshadowing, the coming, the suffering, and the victory of Christ, was developed. Those who took part were dressed in full choral robes and the numbers were presented from memory.

Much credit is due Miss Hedvige Rice, who directed the "Messiah".

Sister Pachel and Paul Thompson, Chicago, spent Monday with their parents here.

MRS. MANN RECEIVES MORE INFORMATION ABOUT TRIP ABROAD

Will Be Given Good Service in United States And Europe

TO SPEND 7 DAYS AT GRAVES

Further detailed information regarding her pilgrimage to the cemeteries of Europe is revealed in a letter received this week by Mrs. Mary Mann, one of the two women in Antioch who bear the distinction of being Gold Star mothers.

Will Be Given Good Service

Arrangements have been made with the American Railroad association which assures the Quartermaster General's office, Washington, D. C., the united support and co-operation of all the railroads in the United States in offering the best possible service to the six thousand mothers who will make this trip. Mrs. Mann's railroad and sleeper ticket will be secured by the local agent, who will also make the necessary pullman reservations. Prior to her departure from home she will receive a check sufficient to pay for her meals and other travelling expenses while en route to New York. Her railroad ticket will provide for a round trip from Antioch to New York and upon her arrival there, the army officer in charge of the New York office will collect the return trip stub and hold it until her return to New York from Europe.

To Spend Seven Days at Cemeteries

After spending from 24 to 48 hours in New York, Mrs. Mann will be escorted to the particular steamship upon which her passage has been engaged for Europe. When the ship docks at Cherbourg, France, she and the members of her party will be met by an officer especially detailed for the purpose and taken in a special train to Paris. The first day there will be a day of rest. On the second day the women of each party will place a wreath on the tomb of the French unknown soldier. In the afternoon there will be a reception in which the French war mothers, government officials, and prominent civilians will participate. The following morning the groups going to the different cemeteries will leave Paris, travelling in motor busses, and proceed to the cemeteries where they will remain for about seven days. Upon return to that city, each party will remain for about five days and during this time an opportunity will be given to see the points of historical interest in Paris and vicinity.

ILLITERACY IN LAKE COUNTY RUNS HIGH

That Lake county has one of the poorest illiteracy records of the 102 counties in the state was indicated by figures released yesterday by the Illinois Committee on Illiteracy, which is conducting a campaign to extirpate ignorance in this state. Rankin eleventh from the last, it has 1,855 illiterates, according to the 1920 census.

Five Million in U. S. Illiterate—Statistics also reveal the fact that there were five million adults in the United States who were illiterate. One out of every fourteen people of voting age cannot read the warning sign on a poisoned well; cannot read "Do Not Smoke, Explosives Near"; cannot read "Danger, Live Wire". One out of every ten people over twenty-one cannot write. The percentage of illiteracy in our country is greater than that in England, Germany, Switzerland, Norway, Denmark and Japan.

Illinois ranks 22nd in percentage of illiteracy, and 25th from the top in native white illiterates. There are 30,907 native white illiterates in Illinois, which is more than all the illiterates in the following states put together: Idaho, Nevada, Wyoming, Utah, and Montana.

The number of illiterates in Illinois has increased in the past decades as follows:

In 1920—173,987

In 1910—168,294

The percentage of illiteracy in the state ranges from 0.4 per cent in Kendall county to 7.2 per cent in Pulaski county. Nineteen counties in the state have more than a thousand illiterates in them. One county, Cook, has over 100,000.

Mrs. Woodbury Dies In Kenosha Hospital Following Operation

Suffering a relapse following an operation, Mrs. Lyle Woodbury, Antioch, died in the Kenosha hospital Sunday afternoon.

The deceased was born at Mazomanie, Wis., Nov. 29, 1888, the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. George Black. She lived her early life there and was graduated from the high school. Later she taught at Muscoda, Wis.

On June 5, 1914, she was united in marriage to Lyle W. Woodbury. She lived at Crystal Lake, Ill., for a year and then moved with her family to Bristol, where she resided until last fall when she moved to Antioch.

Mrs. Woodbury, who was well known in Kenosha county, was active for many years in the community life at Bristol. She was a member and Past Worthy Matron of Bristol chapter No. 104 Order of Eastern Star.

She is survived by her husband and daughter Evelyn; a mother, Mrs. Rosa of Antioch; and three brothers, Richard, of Blue River, Wis., and Gordon and Fayette, of Detroit, Mich.

The funeral was held from the Masonic Temple at Bristol at two o'clock Tuesday afternoon. Interment was in the family plot in Alden cemetery, McHenry county. The Order of Eastern Star assisted in the services.

There Are Two Sides To Every Question

That every question has two sides to it is just as true in advertising as in any argument. In advertising there is the side of the advertiser and the side of the public.

From the viewpoint of the advertiser in the newspaper, advertising is a means of increasing his volume of business. Commercial development has made advertising as necessary to retail business as customers. Without customers, the advertiser could not remain in business, so he advertises to attract customers.

The other side of the question is that of the public. To the public, newspaper advertising means the bringing of the store show cases to the office and living room. It is a service extended to the public by the advertiser, because it aids the public in ascertaining where that which is wanted can be purchased at the most advantageous price. Newspaper advertising has abolished "shop searching." To save time for the shopper lengthens his day.

So although there are two sides to newspaper advertising, there is no disagreement between the two. Finding that advertising serves the public as well as business, the merchant has two reasons instead of one for advertising, and the customer learns that the most progressive merchants are the most extensive advertisers, so there is a double attraction. By the nature of business if advertising didn't help the buying public, it could not help the advertiser.

MRS. CHASE WEBB TELLS THE WAY THEY HAD WITH THEM TWENTY YEARS AGO

Says Driving in Olden Days Wasn't Such a Bad Job

Lo and behold! They had a way with 'em, the automobiles of twenty years ago. After a chat with an Antioch woman who drove back in the goggles and ulster days, it is evident that we may be good with our self-starters, but they weren't so bad with their cranks.

Not Such a Bad Job

It wasn't the most terrible job in the world driving one of these old machines, according to Mrs. Chase Webb, Main street. But if you please this woman driver, of yesterday, and today says that with the exception of turning around in the middle of the street—a hard job in those days—she can't see a speck of difference. That is so far as ease is concerned, you understand.

In all probability, Mrs. Webb says, ten years from today we'll be looking back and laughing at the cars of 1930. Fifty years from today maybe our children and their children will have only to press a button on the instrument board and go sailing through the clouds. Up to Mars perhaps. Who can tell.

No Filling Stations

After all the best we've had is the thing that comes nearest to perfection in our eyes. That's why Mrs. Webb didn't say, "My, what a nuisance!" when she had to take her left hand from the wheel to put on the emergency brake. She didn't even fuss when she had to stop, yank up the seat, pull out her yardstick, and run around to the back of her car and measure the amount of gas. She never dreamed that some day all she'd have to do would be to glance at the instrument board and then if the tank were shy of gas, stop at a filling station that would probably be not more than a block away. There were no filling stations in those days.

Nevertheless Mrs. Webb says these old cars were nothing to sneeze at. She liked the instrument boards for one thing. They were so simple and we newer drivers think we're getting cheated if they aren't filled to overflowing. As for the gears, she had no trouble shifting, she says.

No Stop Signs

And traffic! Ah! Ha! Those were the days! Imagine women drivers sailing across Antioch's Main street, never hesitating for stop signs, but most of all receiving naught but a kindly, fatherly smile from the policeman on the beat when you pulled a boner. Can you imagine it? You see there were so few women drivers in those days, they weren't considered a pest. They were a novelty! And now what are they—just automobile drivers!

Charley Lux Only Brave Man

Commenting upon the Rambler which she purchased in Kenosha some twenty years ago, which, by the way, was the first automobile to career the streets of Antioch, Mrs. Webb says that Charley Lux was the only man in the village who was brave enough to risk his life by riding with her. And then adding a humorous quirk to her tale, she said with a grin, "And you know the best part of it all was, every time we were supposed to stop, Charley would holler 'whoa'. After she had driven the

A Barrel of Vanilla

See It At Our Store

Now You Can Prepare Dishes Fit for a King

We have succeeded in obtaining a barrel of Pure Extract of Vanilla Special from Parke, Davis & Co., the largest manufacturers of drugs in the world. This vanilla has a beautiful bouquet and a delicious flavor. It is absolutely pure Vanilla and not an imitation.

Scoured the World to Find It!

A world famous chef in one of Chicago's leading hotels uses Parke-Davis Vanilla Extract Special in preparing a certain pudding which requires long boiling (4 hours), and he advises that Parke-Davis Vanilla is the only extract which he has found that answers the purpose. He also declares that Parke-Davis Vanilla Extract Special flavor will not boil out nor freeze out and therefore he has made it his decided choice in his culinary art.

WILMOT YOUNG FOLKS TO PRESENT PLAY IN GYM ON APRIL 23RD

Richard DeBell and Alice
Gillmore Are Winners
In Contests

The three act play, "The Man in the Moon", sponsored by the Young Peoples' club of the Lutheran church, will be presented at the Wilmot gym Wednesday evening, April 23. The following compose the cast: Henry West, Earl Elfers; Billy West, Norman Jedele; Courtney Radford, Adolph Fiegel; Clint Yung, Melvin Lake; Ben Wilson, Albert Greenwald; Jonah Daniels, William Fiegel; Mrs. West, Bernice Harms; Margaret West, Norman Elfers; Minerva West, Rhoda Jedele; Miss Chesterfield, Ethelyn Albrecht; Miss Gold, Esther Kauls; Mrs. Clint Yung, Esther Kauls; and Crepe Johnson, Amy Harms. The plot centers about Courtney Radford, the man in the moon, who has come to purchase Timberlake lodge, a summer resort owned by the West family. Much mystery arises when three Courtney Radfords arrive. Jonah and Crepe, the colored servants, discover Chinamen hidden in "Woo-Hoo" cave. Billy West undertakes to solve the mystery and the impostor is brought to justice.

The finals of the oratorical and declamatory contest were held in the Wilmot gym Friday night, April 11. All the finalists did well and deserve congratulations for their worthwhile efforts. First place in oratory was awarded to Richard DeBell, who gave the oration "The Permanent Court of International Justice," and second to Adolph Fiegel, who delivered "Infant Mortality." First place for the girls was won by Mariel Dean. Their selections were respectively, "He Knew Lincoln" and "Adelste Pideles." The winners, who were awarded gold and silver medals, also won the privilege to represent Wilmot in the league contest, which will be held at Wilmot Friday, April 25. Winners of this contest will go to the district meet at Milwaukee on May 9. It is hoped that interest in the work will grow and that a larger crowd will attend the next meet.

catcher; Hartman and Mathews, pitcher; Bernhoft, Kavanaugh, first base; Schmalzfeldt, DeBell, second base; Ward, Newmann, third base; and Lake, Fetting, Gillmore, Emburg, and Rasch, outfield. COMPARE the delivered price as well as the list price in considering automobile values. Chevrolet's prices include only reasonable charges for delivery and financing. Easy C.M.A.C. Terms.

There is one sure way to get greater value in a low-priced car today—choose a Six!

This greater value is instantly obvious when you drive a Chevrolet Six. You notice first of all its greater smoothness. There is no tremor in the steering wheel—no rattle in the floor boards—no drumming in the body.

In addition to the finer performance of its six-cylinder motor, the new Chevrolet gives you truly remarkable economy.

Its six-cylinder smoothness saves the entire car from the strain and wear of vibration. This, of course, lowers the cost of maintenance and assures a longer-lasting automobile.

From the standpoint of operating expense, Chevrolet is equally economical. No automobile uses less gasoline and oil. No car shows a lower expense for tires. And no car costs less for service.

Because of its modern engineering, Chevrolet also assures a high re-sale value—for its entire design is just as advanced as its six-cylinder engine.

Chevrolet gives you fully-enclosed, weather-proof, 4-wheel brakes. It gives you a modern fuel system—with the gasoline tank mounted in the rear outside the body. It gives you four long semi-elliptic springs, mounted lengthwise in the direction of car travel. It gives you beautiful Fisher bodies built of combination hard wood-and-steel. It gives you a full ball bearing steering mechanism, an adjustable driver's seat, a Fisher VV non-glare windshield, and tilting beam headlights, operated by a foot-controlled button.

Before you decide on any car in the low-price field, see and drive the Chevrolet Six. The more thoroughly you investigate, the more certain you are to conclude that it's wise to choose a Six—for value, for performance and for economical transportation!

GOLDEN GLOVE WINNER IN WINDUP AT PALACE FRIDAY

Carl Ogren Will Meet Lou
Bruckman in Feature
Battle

If a super-show means anything to the boxing fans of Lake county a great crowd should assemble at the Antioch Palace tomorrow night when an all-star program of seven bouts will be reeled off. In prospect at least, the show arranged by Promoter Macek seems to be the best so far this season, being over-shadowed in local interest only by the coming Dupre-Smart heavyweight clash scheduled for one week hence.

Headlining the card tomorrow night will be Carl Ogren, Tribune golden glove winner in the 147 pound class and inter-city winner in the tournament with New York amateurs. Ogren will meet Lou Bruckman, Rockford.

The semi-windup bout between Ray Davis of Chicago and Howard Craft of Grayslake promises to be almost as interesting, as the windup affair. The latter defeated the Windy City southpaw in their last go, but Davis is confident of upsetting Craft Friday night. Both boxers are of the aggressive type, and it should be a great mix-up.

Goistand, Popular Mixer

M. Goistand and J. Weber of Waukegan will work in one of the preliminary engagements. The former boy is from Chicago and comes to the Lake county arena with a strong reputation as a fighter that "fights to please."

J. Roth, runner-up in the Central States Tourney, and G. Hrinbesky of North Chicago are tickled to see action on Friday's card. Both are 112 pounders. Pete Verri of Chicago and Ridge Bennett of Waukegan will also work in one of the preliminary bouts.

Carl Lemke of Kenosha, who has been winning bouts in the Wisconsin city with ease, will face Johnny Olson of the Bell Plaine athletic club.

Both fighters are "light-heavyweights" and should put up an interesting battle. The initial fracas of the night will find A. Morrell of Chicago and Mickey Whiting of McHenry tossing gloves at each other. The latter is popular in his own country, and will bring a delegation of local fans to root for him.

Start Bouts at 8:30 o'clock
Friday's card is one of the finest lined up by Macek for some time, and he is confident that it will please the fans from start to finish. The first go of the night will start promptly at 8:30 p. m.

ROTHNOUR PLAYERS TO OPEN TOURING SEASON AT CRYSTAL

"Down on the Farm" to Be Seen at the Crystal
Tuesday Night

J. B. Rothnour and his popular players return to the Crystal theatre Tuesday night when they present a new comedy drama, "Down on the Farm." The appearance of the company here inaugurates the opening of the season for the newly re-organized company that starts immediately on a tour taking them to many states. All the leading members of the company have been retained, and these include Harry Hassenau, leading man, and the comedian, "Billy." Nine other recognized artists are included.

Closing his winter season, which included a circuit of seven towns, three weeks ago, Mr. Rothnour immediately set about to re-organize his company and to perfect many new productions which will be used during the touring season. "Down on the Farm," which he has selected as the opening play, is rated as the best comedy drama on the repertoire. Antioch theatre-goers may see it at the Crystal next Tuesday night.

Members of the Antioch Woman's club will meet at the local Parish House at 2 o'clock Monday afternoon. The hostesses will be Misses. Bogan,

"I SUFFERED 9 YEARS; KONJOLA MADE ME WELL

Grateful Woman Freed Of Rheumatism—Pays Tribute To New Medicine

MRS. CARRIE HAYDON

"I suffered for nine years and then Konjola made me well," said Mrs. Carrie Haydon, R. F. D. No. 8, Springfield, Ill. "Rheumatism had me in its clutches all those years. Often the pains were almost unbearable. I could hardly bend over, and it was impossible to carry anything. Besides this trouble I also had stomach and kidney trouble. They prevented me from enjoying a meal or sleeping soundly. I was weak and run-down in general."

"When Konjola was recommended I thought it would be like all the other medicines I had tried. But my friends insisted that it was different, and I finally consented to put it to the test. Well, that was all that Konjola needed. My system was cleansed and invigorated. I regained strength and energy. The rheumatic pains became less and less severe, and then disappeared entirely. Not a trace of any of my former ailments remain, and I heartily endorse Konjola."

Konjola is a systematic treatment taken after meals. Quickly it goes to the source of the ailments and, if taken regularly, it brings new, vigorous and abundant health.

Konjola is sold in Antioch, Illinois, at S. H. Hoeves' drug store, and by all the best druggists in all towns throughout this entire section.—Adv.

"IN THE BEGINNING—"

"In the beginning" . . . RELIGION was the guiding factor of every race and country. When our rugged forefathers landed at Plymouth Rock they worshiped in acknowledgment of their religion and today we keep faith with these pilgrim fathers. Today in every community are found the churches carrying on! But that which is always with us we too often discount. It is not hard to forget that PRACTICAL RELIGION is the keynote of our community standard of living.

"For two cents" the churches in every community could be improved ONE HUNDRED PER CENT! Have you ever heard of "the religious nickel?" National standards show that the average Sunday contribution is five cents per capita—the support of the churches, based on national statistics averages about one dollar per month per member, or twenty-five cents a month per person—six cents a Sunday—LESS THAN A PENNY A DAY! FIVE CENTS A WEEK we pay for the advantages of a religion for which our forefathers gave their lives! ONE CENT A DAY we contribute to the support of the religious ideals and principles on which our country—the leader among all nations—was established.

What percentage of the money we spend per week on an average is this "religious nickel?"

And yet THE CHURCH IS THE PRIME REQUISITE IN EVERY COMMUNITY, LARGE OR SMALL!

And "for two cents" its service, strength and lawful influence could be increased ONE HUNDRED PER CENT!

ARE WE A "RELIGIOUS NICKEL" COMMUNITY that goes to make the national standard of church support—or ARE WE A THINKING, GOD-FEARING, PROGRESSIVE COMMUNITY that "for two cents" will double the value of our churches to us?

The value of our churches cannot be over-emphasized. They are doing a wonderful work for

STORY FROM THE START

Returning to America, during the War of 1812, after a successful voyage, Capt. Lion Fellowes, merchant ship Sachem, is sunk off Portugal by a British frigate. The crew surrenders, but Fellowes reaches shore exhausted. His life is saved by an English-speaking girl who conceals her identity. He learns from her, however, that she is about to set out for Lisbon. Fellowes goes to Lisbon, hoping to find a vessel America-bound. He meets Capt. Chatter, of the American ship, True Bounty, an acquaintance. Chatter offers him a berth as mate. Fellowes refuses, knowing Chatter is disloyal in trading with the enemy. He meets the girl who saved his life, Cara Ingelin, daughter of the owner of the True Bounty. Cara induces him to sail as mate. Fellowes falls in love with her. The True Bounty is stopped by the British frigate, Badger, Capt. Collishaw. Despite his American citizenship, Fellowes is taken aboard the Badger a "pressed" man.

"Makes it worse for you. A native-born Englishman—shipping with the enemy! Might be excusable if you were an ignorant fellow. Didn't know any better. Humpf! Some captives would fog you on general principles."

A red mist swirled in front of Fellowes' eyes.

"If I had a weapon, you wouldn't have taken me," he snarled. "You trapped me, didn't you? That cur Chatter put you up to it—he was afraid I understood his plotting."

"That will do. Another word, and you'll go in trons."

Something exploded in Fellowes' brain. It wasn't only Chatter who had betrayed him. Cara—the choked.

"If you don't like words, try this," he gasped, and his fist shot up to Collishaw's jaw.

The Englishman pitched backward, long limbs asprawl, as Clench and half a dozen more bluejackets closed in on Fellowes. Something like a grunt went up from the awestruck crew of the Badger. Collishaw lurched on to his feet. There was a puzzled look in the eyes of the Badger's captain, an expression almost of uncertainty.

"Easy with him," he directed Clench. "Don't maul him. Here! Stand him up." And as Fellowes was dragged erect, cursing and lightning with all his strength: "Why on earth did you do that, man? 'Tis mutiny to strike your officer."

"You know why! 'Crimpin' Collishaw, that's what they call you! You didn't even press me like an honest Englishman. No, you cramped me like any lick-split, pot-house shipplag-ant. To clear the road for yourself!"

Collishaw met Fellowes' glare squarely, and so they fronted one another for several breaths.

"I should have liked to ignore your offense," Collishaw said finally. "You seem to labor under a misapprehension."

"Oh, no," mocked Fellowes. "I know what you're up to—trying to cover the tracks of a pair of traitors." Collishaw's hands clenched tightly. "You misapprehend me," he repeated. "I regret I cannot—but discipline must be maintained. Clench, this man is to have fifty lashes—at once."

Fellowes went limp in his captors' grasp. A clammy sweat drenched his face, sweat brewed by a volcanic gust of hate that roared within the soul. His eyes glittered insanely. His voice came hoarsely:

"I'll kill you. Wherever you go, however long it takes to run you down, I'll kill you, Collishaw."

"Give him an hundred lashes, Clench," Collishaw answered bleakly. He turned and strode aft, ignoring Fellowes' silent resumption of the struggle with Clench's assistants.

"Easy all, lad," admonished the boson. "If the cap'n doubles your ration again ye ain't likely to worry much over your troubles. A 'undred lashes is fair easy. But call yerself lucky, at that. Yer the first man I ever seed strike an officer, and live."

"The dog," croaked Fellowes. "I'll kill him—"

"Oh, no ye won't, me lad! Not after a 'undred lashes. Now, then, what's the use o' fightin' us? We're only doin' o' our duty. 'Ere, strip 'im, a couple of ye."

It occurred to Fellowes, as the rough hands of the sailors pawed his garments, that to continue resistance must only add further to his indignities. Whatever he did, his punishment would be administered. He must suffer. Very well, he'd suffer silently. Better so. He'd not squander in idle resistance the energy which should feed the fires of hatred burning now in his heart with a high, relentless flame. Hateful! He'd hate so long as life pulsed in him. He'd hate unsparingly, consumingly, with all the power of his spirit, each one of the group who had brought him to this pass—Collishaw, Chatter, Cara Ingelin and the father who had begotten her. He'd speed his life, his money, his strength, in revenging himself upon them, one and all. But most of all upon her!

Something welled up in his throat, and he felt a stinging in his eyes.

"Cryin', eh?" Clench rumbled in his ear. "All right, lad. Let 'er drip. I've seen stouter men weepin' like babies under the cut."

Fellowes shook the tears from his eyelids.

"The Englishman doesn't live can make me cry," he answered grimly. "Get on with your duty, you called it? I shan't resist you."

"That's the proper spirit! 'Ere ye are, now—hands over yer 'ead—and a turn 'round the wrists. 'Uri ye? It hadn't oughter be tight—ye'll wiggle main 'ard when Kitty starts to kiss ye, lad."

The red mist, with the salty moisture, had cleared from Fellowes' eyes. He was conscious of weariness, mental and physical; yet his body had acquired a peculiar lightness. Around him on the deck were grouped scores of sailors, an Indianan similarly in the ring of tanned faces and muscular bodies, all wearing the identical blue uniform. His watchers might have been hewed from a single pattern—except for two, who stood together a short distance forward of the mast. He observed this pair particularly because one of them was a negro, a giant of a man. The negro's companion was equally ugly, very short, monstrously broad, with comical, bowed legs and long, apelike arms.

Of all those on the Badger's deck this pair were the most brutal in appearance, ostensibly the most debased; but in some unexplainable way they imparted to him a message of sympathy. Their eyes signaled cheer agreement in his ordeal, and he felt mysteriously heartened. He saw, without trembling, Clench striding aft, stripped to the waist like himself, in one gnarled fist a short stock of wood from which depended one knotty chunk of brownish rope. He saw the officer of the deck, Mr. Curry, move nearer, aversion plain in his testy attitude. Then, out of the mill of his eye, he saw Clench step back, with a loud: "Teady, lad! This is the count, sir—One!"

To save himself, he could not help flinching from the one simultaneous blows of the cut. He strained in toward the mast, arching up on his toes, and as he raised himself to the limit of his height he saw outward above the bulwarks the True Bounty bearing away on the opposite tack. One superb tower of canvas leaning to the pressure of the wind. Then he had sunk back upon the hulls of his feet, and Clench's crisp "Two!" preceded the whistle of the lashes cutting into welts the first blow had raised, but this time he managed to keep from flinching. God, how he hated her!

"Three!" he lashes coiled lovingly around his flanks, criss-crossing the welts, drumming on his ribs, flicking the hair out by the roots. "Four!"

No Woman Without Some Appeal to Masculinity

Almost every woman has something about her which, carefully nurtured, will make her seem desirable—not, of course, to every man in her world, but to one or two. The charm, which may be anything from elegant conversation to good cooking, will find appreciation somewhere if it is well displayed.

Men are appealed to through their vanity and valoury even more easily than women, which means that most men would rather be seen about with a woman who put them in debt to their own powers of fascination than with the worthless creature in the world if she had no means of making the beholders envy them.

There may be men who dislike mere flirtation, and coldly ignore a woman who attracts them, but you will have to look for them in monasteries and other retired places. They are not of this world.

Fire burned all over his back and sides, and reached to his belly. His body quivered under the agony of it. But inside him burned a fiercer fire. He raised his head indignantly, and rasped over one shoulder at Clench:

"Why don't you hit hard, man?"

Clench paused in the midst of a blow, almost ashamed.

"And?" he echoed. "Don't be nasty, lad. 'Ere's five—and sixty-five to come."

"No talking," called Mr. Curry.

Fellowes huddled closer to the mast, bracing himself to the shock of the lashes. Presently he tasted the salty moisture again on his lips, and licked them with his tongue. He mustn't cry. Mustn't give this d—n Britisher the satisfaction of it. But the masts weren't tears. It was blood. At the next blow he saw it spurting over his shoulders. The red pulp of the mast was flecked with it. He glanced down, and saw specks of blood on the clean, white deck.

He laughed.

"Fintech, Collishaw, they'll cut him after this," he said in a tired voice that was distinct in the oppressive silence.

"Thirty-five," counted Clench, "thirty-six, thirty-seven, thirty-eight."

Fellowes was one breath of agony from his lobs to his shoulders. He lay along the butt of the mast, banging limp from his fettered wrists. For a while the strain on his arms and hurt him. Now, it was simply one part of the complicated torment that was his being. His hearing had gone with his sense of sight. He didn't know when it was that the count of "Fifty" tolled, and Clench's voice boomed at his ear:

"Dye 'ear me, lad? Ye can take yer other fifty later. We'll have the surgeon up for ye. Yer back's cut to pieces."

"Go on," croaked Fellowes, forcing open bloodshot eyes. "Kill me. If you can. That's what he wants."

Mr. Curry's voice was treble.

"If the man insists, you'll have to go ahead, Clench. Here, fetch him a pan of grog, one of you."

A new voice pierced Fellowes' dwindling consciousness: a soft, plaintive voice, almost womanish in its husky, musical quality:

"Yah, marns! Cuffee got him rum." Fellowes felt the rim of a pannikin at his swollen lips, and sucked thirstily. The raw stuff burned his swollen throat, and he coughed—and every muscle in his torso throbbled and stubbed. He throttled a groan.

"Jure," he pleaded.

"Ye'll git it, friend," promised an other new voice. "This here's Tom Graham, of Philadelphia, P. A. I'm standin' by, along of my olger, Cuffee, here. Easy does it! That's 'out."

Gradually, Fellowes rallied under the stimulant. "Thanks," he managed to say.

Mr. Curry shouted testily:

"If he won't have his punishment postponed you'll have to resume, Clench."

"Aye, aye, sir," Clench acknowledged reluctantly. "Teady, lad."

Fellowes tried to smile, but all that he could contrive was a crooked little grin.

"Teady," he assented. "And I want you to finish the hundred. Understand? Finish!"

"Fifty-one," counted the boson.

Fellowes groaned as the dripping cut slashed into the pulp of his back, but he straightened by a mighty effort of will, and the following blows drew no sound from him. At the seventy-sixth he sagged limp, hanging from his tortured wrists. He revived with salt water sluicing over his head, snarling in the wounds that furrowed him. He felt as if he were dying under the reiteration of the lash, and before long a numbness assailed him. A rather pleasant numbness. He was aware distinctly of another deluge of water, of voices arguing, of a recurrent nervous shock. And at last oblivion relieved him.

Idea of Wedding Cake Credited to Victoria

Gunter's famous confectionery shop in Berkeley square, London, goes back to 1750, when it was known by the sign of the Pot and the Apple.

A perusal of the firm's books, dating from 1820, affords many curious insights into the table customs of late Georgian and early Victorian times. Twelfth cakes were ordered by the ton year after year, and the addition of two packs of cards to every such order was the almost invariable rule. Curiously enough, however, wedding cakes would seem to have been unknown at London society weddings until Queen Victoria set the fashion by ordering one on her marriage. So great was the public curiosity concerning this cake that over 21,000 people passed through the Berkeley square premises in order to view it.

Gradually, Fellowes rallied under the stimulant. "Thanks," he managed to say.

Mr. Curry shouted testily:

"If he won't have his punishment postponed you'll have to resume, Clench."

"Aye, aye, sir," Clench acknowledged reluctantly. "Teady, lad."

A Sour Stomach

In the same time it takes a dose of soda to bring a little temporary relief of gas and sour stomach, Phillips Milk of Magnesia has acidity completely checked, and the digestive organs all tranquilized. Once you have tried this form of relief you will cease to worry about your diet and experience a new freedom in eating.

This pleasant preparation is just as good for children, too. Use it whenever coated tongue or feld breath signals need of a sweetener. Physicians will tell you that every spoonful of Phillips Milk of Magnesia neutralizes many times its volume in acid. Get the genuine, the name Phillips is important. Imitations do not act the same!

"Brought Back My Strength"

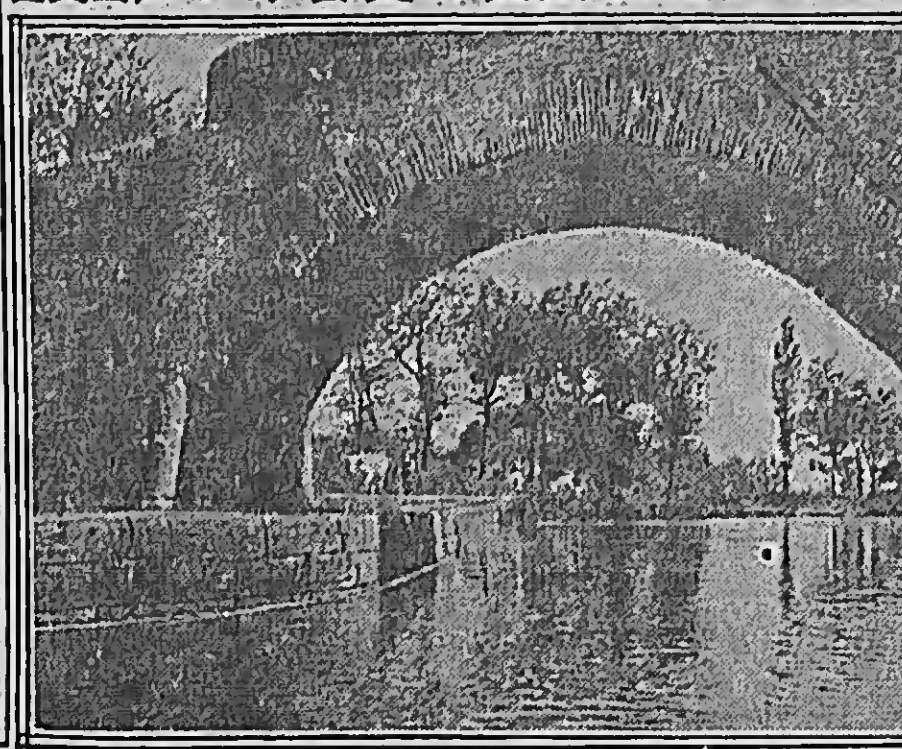

"My little daughter was born on a homestead in northern Alberta. I had four other children and I worked so hard that I suffered a nervous breakdown. The doctor's tonic did not seem to help me and when a friend told me about Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound, I began to take that instead. I kept on until I felt well again. It brought back my strength. Today I can do anything, thanks to the Vegetable Compound."

Historic France

Vista Along the Midi Canal.

(Prepared by the National Geographic Society, Washington, D. C.)

A CROSS southern France, where floods recently devastated a large area, lie the Lateral and Midi canals, connecting the Atlantic and the Mediterranean. A unique sightseeing trip through this delightful country can be made along these waterways in a canoe.

The start is made at Bordenaux. With its almost six miles of wharfage, it is among the few big ports which have troubled to beautify their water fronts. Its broad, quay-paralleling thoroughfare with here a tree-shaded promenade, there a public park, and yonder a towering pair of columns dedicated to Commerce and Navigation, illustrates for the benefit of many another slummy water front how seafreighting may bring beauty out of business.

From Bordenaux for 25 miles the Garonne river forms the waterway. The Lateral canal starts at Castets, and parallels the river to Toulouse.

Though navigation hasn't usually much to do with hills and dunes, that landsman's phrase aptly describes a canal trip. The 260-mile waterway which stretches from near Bordenaux to the Mediterranean—that is, the combined routes of the Lateral and the Midi canals—is regulated by 118 locks. These give a 620-foot drop on either side of Castelnau, the highest intermediate point.

Thus, the canoe voyager goes "up-hill" to Castelnau, then "down dale" to the Mediterranean, averaging 10½ feet of ascent or descent each time he passes a lock.

Beautiful Country. The Lateral canal leads through a smiling countryside of gently rippling hills and of close cultivation, with tobacco plantations and vineyards alternating. Regiments of staked vines align themselves across the fields at the queerest of angles, a planting system aimed at securing the maximum exposure of sunlight.

Here and there some picturesque village, its fifteenth-century houses dominated by a ruined donjon, mirrors itself in the Garonne.

The canal and its river feeder parallel each other for 120 miles, and it is but a short stroll whenever one wants a glimpse of the latter. Their courses intersect at Agen. One suddenly finds himself cruising between two seemingly endless walls of masonry, and the scenery begins to drop out of sight. First the trees, then the dim hillsides, sink disquietingly away into nether space. It is the canal-carrying aqueduct, which floats barge traffic high in air across the wide valley of the Garonne.

Prehistoric Neighborhood. From Agen an interesting pilgrimage can be made to Les Eyzies' grottoes where can be seen the habitations of Pleistocene man. It was in the early sixties that Les Eyzies' grottoes yielded finds of flint and horn implements, human skeletons, and bones of extinct animals. Subsequently these formed a basis for calculating the chronology of the Stone Age.

Between the rule representations of animals, scratched by primitive man on his cave's walls, and the art which caused Molassac's cloister columns to bloom with flowerlike beauty, lies all the mystery of the timeless miracle of mental evolution.

Long before one enters the Canal du Midi at Toulouse, one realizes how well named is France's "Midi." This is the French word for midday. In summer and autumn it is a country of withering heat, shuttered houses, white roads, and dust-covered foliage, under a brilliant, cloudless sky.

Toulouse—plus for the betraying charm of its name!—sprawls commonplace and disconsolate-looking, as if depleted by centuries of sunstroke. Of the medieval city that was the seat of a powerful countship and the scene of religious wars, little remains but St. Sernin's Romanesque pile, named for St. Saturninus, who was dragged behind the bull he had refused to sacrifice on Jupiter's altar, to recall Toulouse's architectural past.

Old Customs Retained. With one other exception what the visitor would expect of that high-sounding name is discoverable only in histories.

This exception is the curious spectacle of forty citizen patrons receiving alive gold and silver flowers from La Durade's high altar, then dishing through Toulouse to award these artificial amaranths, marigolds, and other blossoms in a poetry contest, and finally hymning a eulogy on the festival's reputed founder, Dame Clemence Isaure.

Such is the May day fete of the ancient Academie des Jeux-Moraux. While floral festivals of varying kinds are held at Nice, Cahors, Lyons, Celles, and in Normandy, Chateau, and French Prussia, it is only the Toulouse event which represents an unbroken tradition of six centuries' span.

At Toulouse travelers by canal leave the Lateral canal and enter the much older Canal du Midi. Constructed in 1603-1631, this "canal of two seas" represents the earliest step toward the present Atlantic-to-the-Isthmus line. Beyond that 26-mile route extend the Rhône's northern canal connections whereby barges can travel inland from Bordenaux to various French channel ports.

The most recently completed canal link in southern France has opened a Marseilles-to-Calais line. This is 852 miles long, or considerably shorter than the sea route.

The Canal du Midi is not only an important commerce carrier; it is among the most beautiful of French waterways. Immediately beyond Toulouse it traverses a series of woodland vistas, a ceaseless interplay of lights, shadows and reflections, that change with each turn of this endlessly twisting stream.

The Midi canal's picturesque character is due to the magnificent trees which line its banks for more than 100 miles. Here are venerable oak glades, there alleys of plane trees, and yonder spear-straight pines or somber walls of cypress. Often, indeed, ranks of these different species parallel each other in a multiplied depth of sylvan shelter. The lovely curves and green wealth of foliage are alike due to its planners' method of mulching, for the benefit of large traffic, the sweeping winds of the region.

Nothing less than the epithet "Ash-ability" could convey a picture of the Midi's angles, squinting in endless succession along the canal bank. The approach of boats scarcely stirs them from their placid dreams.

Beyond Toulouse one has left Gascony behind and is well into Languedoc. Gascony, Languedoc, Provence—names how redolent of history and romance!

From many remote blood strains and from constant transpyrenean infiltrations has sprung up the Midi type—dark-skinned, glowing-eyed, often Sarcenallike.

Busy Market-Day Scenes. Castelnau-d'Aud tempts one ashore for that bustle of sights, a market town on market day. One of its leafy squares, is reserved for vegetable sellers, a second for poultry and game, and a third for horse dealing. Down one street come carfuls of huge hamper containing mixed families of ducks and rabbits. Down another come peasants bicycling into town, with geese sitting sedately now in trays attached to the handlebars.

Trade is brisk, and by noon the world and his wife are walking homeward with squirreling rabbits and cackling chickens under their arms. As for the horse fairs in Rosa Bonheur's native countryside, they are just such animated sights as her famous canvases portray.

Carcassonne, on the Midi canal, is two towns in one. The Cite is completely dissociated from Carcassonne's Ville Basse, or lower town. The former is a steep hill, its crest encircled by mighty walls, hardly less than a mile around, thronged with tall towers showing crenelated tops—the epitome of high-perched, drawbridge-guarded medievalism, profiled against fleecy clouds adrift in the blue.

For 15 centuries it has stood thus, The Cite of Carcassonne. Beyond the fact that the Roman empire gave self-government to Carcassonne, as it was then called, and classed it as a "noble" or "delected" city, little of Carcassonne's history emerges until the fifth century. It was then that the Visigoths fortified this strategic point, which commands half a dozen Pyrenean passes, by erecting the Cite on the ruins of Roman ramparts, utilizing their knowledge of Roman fortifications.

For 1,500 years these fortifications have been accumulating the cobwebs of history. Here East met West and North met South, in the succession of foreign conquerors who came and went, now besieging the Cite and now modifying it into what was acclaimed by Viollet-le-Duc, its chief restorer, as the most picturesque and most nearly perfect example of a medieval fortress.

HOW TO LIVE LONGER

A Dangerous Toy

THE other day some children were playing near a quarry. One of them picked up a shiny article resembling a small tin box. Curiosity got to work. Unable to pry it open, a hammer was used to smash it. The result, one mangled arm and two permanently disfigured faces. Thus it comes to pass that hundreds of young people in this country are annually crippled by the blasting cap.

It is logical for parents to consider the explosive hazard only in connection with the Fourth of July celebration. However, the blasting cap danger is more or less an ever present one in certain localities.

Annually hundreds of serious accidents from this cause are reported to the state and city health departments. Youngsters pick up these caps in the vicinity of mines, quarries or in the fields where agricultural blasting has been done. The accident follows as an almost inevitable consequence. And the sad feature of the situation lies in the easy availability of such hazards.

Blasting caps contain fulminate of mercury, which is a quick and powerful explosive. Consequently, they are not toys. Parents should warn their children never to tamper with them in any way. They should be shunned as is a rattlesnake.

However, the main obligation rests with those who use them. A careful checkup should be daily required. Under no circumstances should these devices be left at home or in other places readily accessible to young people.

Blasting caps are a necessary adjunct to the nation's business. But that business must emphatically not include maiming and killing children. Let blasting cap users and parents appreciate this fact.

Why Fumigate?

THERE are a couple of old ladies who persist in traveling up and down Fifth Avenue in New York City in a horse-drawn brougham. With noses in the air and seemingly unconcerned about the smiles which appear on the faces of other people, they go on their way feeling secure in the habit of a lifetime.

And there are still many persons, including members of school boards, who exhibit this same type of ill-chosen tenacity. This they display in their antiquated practice of smoking out germs alleged to be thriving where a case of communicable disease has been discovered.

No one will deny that fumigation will kill bacteria. But it requires a sealed room and an exceedingly careful technique to accomplish it. Provided, that is, that the germs were there in the first place.

It is a well established fact that most bacteria, responsible for communicable disease, are body parasites. They leave the body in its discharges, usually those of the nose and throat. Typhoid fever and other intestinal diseases of germ origin are of course eliminated through the intestines.

It follows that the main control object is the person himself. Disinfection of the bodily discharges, investigation of contacts, missed cases and "carriers" should attract the real interest and concern.

Entirely too much money is being spent these days on the Victorian and quite useless practice of fumigation in school rooms. Substitute for this sunlight, fresh air and an application of soap and water. Jump out of the horse-drawn brougham. Be modern, scientific and sensible.

Started Stage Career

in Hair-Raising "Turn"

The name of Peg Worthington, the actress—loved by the great David Garrick, idolized in her day by worshippers of beauty and patrons of the drama, the cynosure of rank and fashion, the darling of the town—has become a tradition, an item of British folklore, the theme, as it were, of an oft-told fairy tale. Probably no aspirant to fame in the theater has ever started quite so young as Margaret Worthington, to give her her baptismal name. She made her debut in Dublin, when she was scarcely two, writes Charles Ellet, in the London Sunday Chronicle. There was a rough shanty of a playhouse where a French acrobat, Madame Violante, filled up the intervals with tightrope walking, her most famous "turn" being to walk the rope with a baby in a basket attached to each foot. Thus did tiny Peg Worthington make her first entry into theaterland. Madame Violante was sure of step, else there might be no romantic tale to tell.

Dwarf Pines

The picturesque dwarf pines that so delight the gardener of Japan are developed through the grafting of the branches of the black pine onto soft white pines. The black or hard pines, which look so much like an old man stooped and bent beneath a parasol which he carries, when grafted upon the soft variety result in the stunting of the latter and produces the grotesque growths which lend so much interest to the Japanese garden.

Sad and Lonely

Governor Gunderson of South Dakota said in Pierre in an address in praise of marriage:

"Is there anything as sad and lonely as the life of an old maid?" "An old maid was looking over the goldfish in a pet shop. She was about to start an aquarium, you see. 'These little fellows here, ma'am,' the salesman said, 'are 40 cents apiece. Them big ones are $1.50 up.'"

"The old maid bent over and studied the goldfish through her spectacles. 'Could you tell me,' she said wistfully, 'which size would be the best company for me?'"

FAMILY DOCTOR

LEARNED THIS ABOUT CONSTIPATION.

Dr. Caldwell loved people. His years of practice convinced him many were ruining their health by careless selection of laxatives. He determined to write a harmless prescription which would get at the cause of constipation, and correct it.

Today, the prescription he wrote in 1885 is the world's most popular laxative! He prescribed a mixture of herbs and other pure ingredients now known as Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin, in thousands of cases where bad breath, coated tongue, gas, headaches, biliousness and lack of appetite or energy showed the bowels of men, women and children were sluggish. It proved successful in even the most obstinate cases; old folks liked it for it never gripped; children liked its pleasant taste. All drugstores today have Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin in bottles.

Veterans on Pension Roll

On December 31, 1929, there were 472,917 old soldiers on the pension rolls of the bureau of pensions. Of this number 183,310 were Spanish American veterans, 55,716 were Civil war veterans; and the remainder were regular service men, and veterans of the Indian wars.
